1. Opening
Michiel Leezenberg opens the meeting and welcomes everyone. He excuses board member Melissa Green (NFA Treasurer) who is currently in Australia.

2. Minutes of the last General Meeting, 5 June 2015
There is a question about a remark in the report of the rector that the new location in Amsterdam will provide more opportunities for fellows to interact – this seems a strange remark since Wassenaar is ideal for that. Paul Emmelkamp replies that he think he meant opportunities for exchange with the wider scholarly community in the Netherlands.

Another member asks whether the NFA will continue to exist after the move to Amsterdam? Michiel responds that the NFA will continue to exist and no dramatic changes are expected. He explains that we will have to review tasks and responsibilities, and will also have more regular meetings. The minutes are accepted, with kind thanks to Rita Buis.

3. Move to Amsterdam and future of NIAS. Report by the Rector
Paul Emmelkamp gives an update on the current year. As before, there were a number of theme groups, individual fellows, as well as an increase in the number of co-sponsored fellowships. The policy to increase diversity in the gender, age and geographic origin of the fellows is maintained, and NIAS experiments with allowing for more flexibility in the length of the stay: instead of a half year or full year they now also allow fellows to stay for shorter periods. This works out in some cases and less well in others.

There is a new scholarly committee (whose members are appointed by the Royal Academy of Arts and Sciences), from the areas of economy, international law, history and philosophy.

There were theme groups on:
- Linguistics
- Knowledge and the City (1450-1800), Descartes Centre
- Agenda for Future Retirement Research and Policy
Diversity:
- Gender: there are still slightly more male than female fellows, but the picture is rather balanced
- Countries of origin: half of the fellows is from the Netherlands, half from abroad
- Disciplines: humanities still is the largest group, social sciences about 25 percent, another 25 percent interdisciplinary.
- Categories: most fellowships are individual, one third consists of members of theme groups, about a fifth hold co-sponsored fellowships

NIAS is quite visible in the world, judging from the number of applications versus the acceptance rate.

In addition to the co-sponsored L’Oreal-UNESCO for women in science fellowship and the distinguished Lorentz fellow, there is a new Art and History fellowship co-sponsored by the RKD (Netherlands Institute for Art History), occupied this year by Elmer Kolfin. In addition there is a new fellowship from the Royal Academy of the Arts – Jan Rosseel and Arne Hendriks will be the first fellows.

The Willem Duysenberg Fellowship Prize 2016 has been awarded to Robert Inklaar.

Regarding the future, the move to Amsterdam is upcoming (the move takes place on 8 August 2016). NIAS will continue with programs as before; individual fellowships; theme groups (3); 4 EURIAS fellows; many co-sponsored fellowships, including a new one by Stichting Psychotechniek. NIAS will also continue to provide support for workshops and will newly add support for Summer Schools.

Organizationally, NIAS is now part of the KNAW Humanities Group, together with the Meertens Institute, the Huygens ING and the IISG, primarily sharing administration and financial management. The new location is the St Jorishof building, with an entrance at Korte Spinhuissteeg 3. The building accommodates:
- 30 individual offices
- A library on the 3rd floor
- A common room
- Seminar/workshop rooms
- Meeting rooms
- A lunchroom on the 1st floor

The twelve apartments for individual fellows are located two doors down the KNAW; these are very beautiful, spacious apartments housed in a building dating from the 16th C, where Rembrandt lived for one year. The building also contains a common room, a large kitchen and a large dining room. At Stadionplein NIAS rented apartments for families (in a brand new building), located about 20 minutes by tram from the NIAS offices.

One fellow asks about ownership of the current building; it is property of the Academy and will be sold. Paul Emmelkamp explains there is a problem with the Persian Rose Garden, for which the NIAS is morally responsible. He has been in touch with The New Institute in Rotterdam, who saw two options: 1. move the entire garden to the museum garden in Rotterdam; 2. leave it here in Wassenaar and manage it from Rotterdam. Another option is to seek collaboration with the Genootschap Iran-NL, for example by creating an entrance from the street, possibly in collaboration with the municipality of Wassenaar.

Another fellow remarks that the service of fetching the literature from the university library in Leiden and the KB was a real asset of the present location. Paul Emmelkamp explains that in Amsterdam they will do something similar; the library of the University of Amsterdam already has such a service, they are currently discussing how to extend that service to the NIAS.

Another question concerns the international contacts, and how to NIAS informs the fellows about the main themes addressed each year. Paul Emmelkamp indicates that there is a booklet with fellows and theme groups that contains all relevant information. In addition, the themes are discussed in the world-wide network of eight Institutes for Advanced Study, especially during the annual European IAS consortium meeting. Every 5-6 years there is peer review by another IAS to evaluate NIAS policy.

Other questions concerned:
- The housing Dutch fellows from far-away places in the Netherlands, such as Maastricht and Groningen. Paul Emmelkamp explains that for this year there is no problem and indicates that if there is no room in the current apartments, different ones will be sought.
- Summer Schools: may ex-fellows apply for that? The rector indicates that after the move in September everyone will be informed about this option.
- What will happen to the artworks? The rector responds that it is their intention to have a very large picture of the Rose Garden on the wall of the entrance to the new NIAS. Besides, they will try to bring as much as possible to the new building and fellow apartments. Maria van Daalen indicates that Henrik Riebot (who painted Maria’s poem on the wall) is part of Wassenaarse poëzieroute, he wants to include it in the route. The sun dial donated by the NFA stands for ‘slow science’, underlining the fact that a fellowship allows one to be temporarily relieved from management duties; there is a suggestion to bring it to Amsterdam.
- What will happen to the archives? These will have to be saved and/or digitalized. Jos Hooghuis indicates that this should be done by a proper archivist. Suggestions are to collaborate with the IISG and the Archival Science MA program at the University of Amsterdam.

4. Report on the Golestan Foundation

Paul van den Broek reports on behalf of GF board and discusses the financial report. The Golestan Foundation experienced a loss of about € 7,000 compared to the year before; the total assets still amount to over 1M€. The loss is not unexpected, regarding the developments in the stock market. The overall summary is that the foundation is in good health. The budget has been approved by the NFA Board.

The fellows inquire about the Golestan Foundation’s stance on the future of the Rose Garden. Paul van den Broek indicates that the Board consents on what Paul Emmelkamp has said: the idea is to find a way to keep it here, in collaboration with the Genootschap Iran-NL. There is considerable time pressure since the place has already been put up for sale. Irvin Galen asks about the fate of the artworks purchased by the Golestan foundation, Michiel Leezenberg points to the moral responsibility to maintain the memory of the donators wife. Maria van Daalen suggests to collaborate with the Wassenaarse Poezieroute, they would want to make good use of the Rose Garden for poetry readings. Paul van den Broek confirms that this is definitely the intention.

There is a short discussion on plans for spending the money. An idea is to commission special artworks for special occasions, such as the upcoming 50th anniversary of the institute. Another option could be to keep commissioning poetry. The NFA Board will think about it.

Michiel Leezenberg reads out the statement of the auditing committee and thanks them for their task.

6. Composition of the NFA Board
Michiel Leezenberg is at the end of his term as Chair of the NFA Board and has to step down. He has indicated that he is eligible for re-election. Julia Noordegraaf explains that because of the tight timeframe we could not invite others to step forward. There are no objections so Michiel Leezenberg has been re-elected by acclamation.

7. Appointment of a New Auditing Committee
Patricia Lulof and Arne Hendriks are appointed as new auditing committee members by acclamation.

8. Other business
Someone inquires if the current fellows are invited for the NFA day. They are indeed, but are not required to attend.

9. Close
At 14:55 Michiel closes the meeting.

Action point: NFA Board to develop plan for spending the money.

Julia Noordegraaf, Secretary.

Suggested statute amendments, presented by the interim Board, 2018

The existing NFA statutes and by-laws have not been updated since 1997 and they do not reflect current requirements. In an effort to professionalise, to improve legal protection and liability, and to ensure the NFA as an independent entity outside NIAS, the fellows who have volunteered to serve as interim board members suggest to change the legal status of the NFA as an informal association to an association with statutes drawn up by the notary and deposited at the Chamber of Commerce. The NFA Board a.i. would like to put this change of legal status up for consideration by the general membership.

Below are suggestions by the NFA Board a.i. for an update of the current statutes, to be discussed by the general membership at the General Meeting. Important points of discussion are:
- Membership
- Dues (more flexible)
- Composition of the Board
- Incorporating online communication

Note that the document below is a draft version, to be discussed during the General Meeting and, should the general membership agree, to be used as input for the version to be compiled by the notary and to be formally approved by the membership in 2019.

Any further suggestions by NFA members, or prospective members, are actively encouraged.
